The delicate one...with sugar

a warm bath renders her translucent take gentle care she scalds easily gentle heat dilates capillaries stippled as with an artists brush a modest blush upon her china white skin betraying appetite as perfumed petals begin to rev the heart pale tannin fancy parts the pink sweetness follows delicate dissolution stirring flesh under moonlight bright pillows fall across the bed powdered roses scent her abstinent soliciting chaste tiara lies behind the porcelain sparkle of her eyes

In the dahlia month

they bloom are illuminated become open to the night translucent bright brides consumed volatile as sodium unquenchable atoms untwining casting shadows in the dark light corpses immolated forbidden the morning breeze drenched in soot stolen lives fall gently on upturned faces scrape them up give them to the soil nourish new shoots to grow once more into dark desire

One red petal

blood hangs

crimson pure life

aching threads sever

keening falls

anger

white void

stillborn herself

ancient womb song

Delicate oppositions

gentile skin

floating childlike

ender addiction roughened surrender

n fragile she

rejectable meanwhile

her implosion fragmental care

gentle sin

futile affliction

infertile scare within her

rare tear

privative skin
